nounces emphatically that beginning with Ash Wednesday, she is "not at home" for forty days; and I must confess that her friends regard the same more in the light of an affectation than a plous observance of the fasting season, inasmuch as she is neither a Catholic nor an Episcopalian. Lent apparently makes little difference in the theater-going, the concert and musicale attendance and the card playing. Euchre clubs are rearing their heads on all sides these days. My morning mail is mountains high, with notices of Lenten recitals and lectures and the like, while a casual glance at the theatrical lists of attractions yet to come is quite sufficient proof that managers have made no discrimination in disfavor of the next six weeks, but, on the contrary, have booked some of the best plays of the winter for this very time.

No small number of society people, both women and men, have made preparation to occupy themselves with the pursuit of for-eign tongues this winter. French and German classes flourish in a most animated way in the West End and will so continue until spring. Mrs. Harney's French salon, to which some of the representative women of the city belong, has increased in cize and interest, and will continue during Lent, meeting each week. Mrs. A. J. Lindsay, Mrs. John Chambers, Mrs. Bogy, Mrs. Flad, Mrs. Dan Catlin, Miss Lindsay, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. Adreon are some of those who belong recitals, will not make an exception this year. Cards have already been sent out to members, announcing three Lenten recitals, the first to be given on February 14, and to consist of a plano recital with Beethoven as the composer, by Mr. E. R. Kroeger; the second, on February 21, a song recital-Schumann-Schubert-by Mr. Francis Rogers of New York: and the t ird and last, on February 28-a plano recital by Mr. Kroeger on Chopin's music. The Odeon at 11 o'clock in the morning will be the place and the time. Each club member has the privilege of bringing one guest.

Why doesn't society get busy for the firemen's relief fund? We have given no charity ball this winter; nor has there been any function with society women to manage it and society men to pay for it, for I can't begin to tell how many moons. If balls are not au fait in Lent, there are any number of new projects that might "go" with immense success, especially when those brave firemen's families are to e the benefited ones. Why not a big summer garden show? In the Odeon or some other place equally large and handsome. Grass mats all over the floor; small tables; colored lights; band stand in the middle; well-known girls in costume to serve as waitresses; more wellknown girls and men to do vaudeville turns on a stage; the sextet from Florodora; flan Toy and his One-little-two-little-eightlittle wives, which Charles Ward Rhodes and some clever young indies gave at a re-cent Art School affair; positively there is no end to the interesting and entertaining "stunts" which might be done by amateurs for such a charitable entertainment; and with the greatest artistic success, too.

Call out that aggregation of talented persons known as the Artists' Guild. They

The ball given by Mr. and Mrs. Ephron Catilin on Friday night at Mahler's, for their debutante daughter. Miss Emily Catilin, was the last of the season. Two hundred persons danced, with the greater part of the guest list made up of de-butantee, and Miss Catlin's young friends.

Mrs. Catilin received in a very smart pale-blue satin gown, quite magnificently ornamented with old point; while Miss Catilin, whose beauty has received many compliments this winter, appeared in palest-pink tulle with a scattering of pretty spangies and a little white lace delicately appelled. Pink is a particularly good color applied. Pink is a particularly good color for this stately blond, who is one of the

for this stately blond, who is one of the most stunning buds that society has welcomed in many a season. I saw dozens of opera-glasses leveled at the Catlin box a few nights ago, when the Choral-Symphony held forth in the Odeon.

Miss Emily Catlin, who may soon have the right to engrave her cards "Miss Catlin," if reports be true, was easily the prettiest bit of femininity in the house, and society appreciated that fact regime at her society appreciated that fact gazing at her pink silk frock and per pink chiffon frills with the warmest admiration.

The Southern exodus is on, and for the next ten days or more, society will flock to Palm Beach. Lower California, the Bermudas and Texas, with in almost ev-ery case, a pause at New Orleans for

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Drummond are already the life of the St. Louis colony at the Beach. Mrs. Edward H. Simmons and Mrs. Wallace Simmons are both there with their father-in-law, E. C. Simmons; while Miss Carrie Tinker went down re-cently with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Battle and Mrs. Battle's sister, Miss Pugh, are arrivals of the last few days, and will join the Alfred Bevises, who expect to take the Bermudan trip and possibly a jaunt to Porto Rico before coming northward. The brides and bridegrooms of the past week, Mr. and Mrs. Markham and Mrs. and Mrs. Francis Dwight Beward, will in the Genials' colors—green and white. The

her lengthy Mexican trip, and I see that the Misses Warner are also back from their tour with Miss Helen Gould's party.

Hot Springs is so comparatively near St.
Louis that most people can manage to get down for two or three times during the season. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Douglas have been at the Springs for a fortnight. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Orthwein went down last Thursday with a large party, and many more are to follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Daugherty and Miss
Temple Belle Daugherty chose San Antonio this winter. They will not come North until time to open their lakeside cottage, much to the regret of Miss Daugherty, who prefers St. Louis to any other place on the close. on the globe.

Mrs. John Chambers, Mrs. Bogy, Mrs. Flad, Mrs. Dan Catlin, Miss Lindsay, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. Adreon are some of those who belong and who are fluent French scholars.

A recently organized German Club will meet once a week, probably at the Conservatorium, and continue the study of the German language, after a five weeks' conversational course with teachers. Some of those who are most diligent are Miss Teasdale, Joseph Wheleas, Mrs. George S. Mc Grew, Miss Grace Bell, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ingalis, Mrs. Brinson, the Reverend Frederick Bente, Dr. and Mrs. Prouty and Mr. Poorman.

The Morning Choral Club, which has for many seasons, prepared profitable and pleasant series of Lenten music lectures and recitals, will not make an exception this year. Cards have already been sent out It lacked ten minutes of closing time in business office. I'll wager that her type-writer flew that afternoon, in order that she might have that extra half hour for shopping before the stores closed. The typewriter knew the two others. They all exchanged pleasant greetings and then the shoe manufacturer's wife said with a gratified smile:

"Isn't it lovely of Mrs. B. to ask me to drive home with her? I was obliged to come downtown to-day in the street cars, something I've not done before in years, as one of our horses is lame."

"And we must go, my dear," declared the Colonel's wife, taking her parcels from the clerk. "It is getting late." They nodded to the third woman and hurried out into the whirling snow, where stood the hand-some brougham and the pair of well-groomed bays; the coachman snapped the oor, sprang upon the box, and off they flew.

The shabby little business woman glanced after them-just a minute. I really don't think she was envious; but I was-for her. The shoe manufacturer's wife, who is rich, who never rides in street cars and whose one exception was that afternoon when. I've no doubt, the experience was very broadening, had the "lift" homeward that belonged, by every right of charitable and generous purpose, to her—to the other who would have appreciated it, oh, so much; and to whom it would have been a very act of kindest Providence that bitter day, when her shoes were wet and her thip oid acket was none too warm. Misplaced charity. Lid you ever stop to think, my dear society matrons, that the cap fits you many times?

"THE QUESTION OF THE DAY."

The PIANOLA

What it IS and what it DOES.

As to both of these questions: It is a beautiful Cabinet, finished in any kind of wood desired. You simply move the Pianola up to your plane so that its little fingers rest over the keys. When you select the composition, it does the reading of the notes and the fingering for you, leaving nothing to be done except to control the expression, which you do through the pedals and the EXPRESSION devices. With the Planola you are still the player.

The musician works years and years to acquire, not EXPRESSION and feeling, but manual, mechanleal, muscular detterity. He practices scales and five-finger exercises solely to make machines out of his hands. When you own a Planola you are no longer required to do this, for the Planola provides the technical ability for you to revel in the kind of music for which you care, and furnishes the means to faithfully reflect the feelings by which you are dominated. It is a new invention, NO REEDS, NO SPRINGS, NO ELECTRICITY. It is made in fancy woods and is an ornament in the home, as well as a means of gratifying every musical wish at a moment's
